END ARMISTICE IN STRIKE ROW

SALINAS, Cal., Sept. 21.—(UP)—Labor asserted itself again today in Salinas' $11,000,000 lettuce strike as "peaceful" picketing was resumed after a four-day armistice following last week's violence.

Striking lettuce workers began a systematic picketing of packing plants, Filipino labor camps, highways and other points throughout the city. A definite number of men was assigned to each location and they worked in relays. Each man bore a sandwich sign or banner proclaiming "Unfair to Organized Labor."

Trucks laden with lettuce moved from the fields of the nation's "salad bowl" unguarded by state highway patrol cars and passed the picket lines without incident. There was evidence of a diminishing of the armed forces of the state police and city and county forces.

The 2000 "citizen police" drafted as deputies by Sheriff Carl Abbott after last Wednesday's plotting in downtown Salinas, appeared to have returned to their every-day activities and strikers and employers awaited a peace conference tomorrow at Sacramento, called by Gov. Frank F. Merriam in an effort to halt the strike which started Sept. 4 when employers refused to grant the union's demand for preferential hiring, and struck.

KNOX ARRIVES IN L. A. FOR SPEECH

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 21.—(UP)—Every state east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio river will vote Republican in the November election, Frank Knox, Republican vice presidential nominee, predicted upon his arrival here today for an address. He ranked California as a "doubtful state."

A crowd of 300 local political leaders and followers turned out to meet him when the Chicago newspaper publisher stepped off the train after a short ride from Santa Barbara where he spent the weekend. He speaks tonight to a mass meeting of partisans at Shrine auditorium.

Loans To Business Show Steady Gain

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 21.—(UP)—Bank loans to business continued to increase in the Twelfth Federal Reserve District, the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco reported today.

Member banks in seven cities in the district reported such loans during the week ending September 16 totaled $380,000,000, compared with $377,000,000 the preceding week.

Demand deposits as of September 16 totaled $859,000,000, compared with $839,000,000 as of September 9, and time deposits totaled $1,025,000,000 unchanged from the preceding week.

SRA CASE LOAD IN COUNTY TO SHOW INCREASE

First indications of the anticipated heavy increase in the SRA case load during the winter months was reported today by Director Terrence H. Halloran of the SRA.

Halloran said that the SRA case load now stands at 710 cases, as compared with but 490 a month ago at this time. Many cases, he said, are being placed on Works Progress Administration projects.

The big increases are expected to start the first of next month. Past records have shown that the months of October, November, December, January and sometimes February have been the busiest months at the SRA headquarters, with intake increasing in these months.

During October alone of last year the intake amounted to 907 cases, and averaged around a thousand cases a month for several months. Last year the peak month was in November, when the case load hit a high of 4200. The highest month of February, year before last, when 5200 cases were on SRA.

Halloran does not expect as large a case load this year as last year, due to the activity of the WPA. He expects a considerable number to be given WPA work without the necessity of clearing through SRA.

Increase of cases on relief during the winter months is due to a letdown in agricultural activities.

GOVERNMENT OF SPAIN MENACED

The loyalist attack on the Alcazar continued—artillery fire, sniping, dynamiting with small bombs, occasional infantry attacks.

But the rebels were fighting like tigers and no loyalist head appeared for which there was not a rebel bullet. The great dynamiting failed entirely; whether it killed anybody at all except loyalists hit by flying rocks is questionable.

Between the lines of even directly, loyalist communiques showed that the government is on the defensive almost everywhere.

A dozen fronts are covered in communiques of the enemy sides; little fronts that crop up in the news once a week or so with a paragraph, covering every part of Spain.

Rebel reports talked persistently of grave internal troubles at Madrid and Barcelona. There was no substantiation for these.

It was feared that another effort of the diplomatic corps to effect evacuation of women and children from the Alcazar and Oviedo must fail—the rebels want to concede nothing because they believe they are winning and they want to drive to a definitive victory.

Gen. Gonzalo Queipo de Llano, the rebel broadcaster at Seville, claimed Santa Olalla. He asserted a rebel relief column was within 21 miles of Oviedo; that the Oviedo rebels made a sortie, that in the northeast, the Huercal rebels defeated a great Catalan force; that the rebels recaptured Ibiza Island in the Balearics. Official communiques from Burgos, the rebel northern headquarters, said that in Sunday's operations in the Guadarramas the rebels made an important advance, and that in the San Sebastian-Olivar area, they captured Azpeitia, from Azpeitia a road runs direct to Bilbao.

Reports from rebel sources asserted that during the past week the rebels took more than 4000 prisoners and were considering establishment of a concentration camp; that more than 2500 loyalists had been killed on the Maqueda-Santa Olalla-Talavera front.

Rebels were talking about the approaching battle of Madrid and the defense the government would make on the southern side. They figured the main defense line would be in the suburbs, in the Atocha area and fall back house by house on prepared positions.

KEN Murray SAYS:

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—The war is on! Yes sir, the 1936 campaigners have dropped all polite tactics, and the first big gun was fired when the New Dealers claimed that Gov. Brann of Maine was defeated by bought votes. . . . They evidently feel that the decision in Maine was not the voice of the people, but merely the sound of money talking.

Of course, if the Democrats really lost because they forgot to provide the necessary coin, then it was due to Jim Farley's close association with those absent-minded college professors.

Undoubtedly the most outstanding thing is that this marks the first time the New Dealers have ever been accused of not spending enough money.

Poor F. D. All these months he has been preaching "Buy back prosperity," and it looks like at least he sold the idea to the Republicans.

COMMUNIST ON HEARST RADIO

The activities of the Communist party in its opinion violate the provisions of the federal statutes, prohibiting seditious conspiracies to put down or destroy the government of the United States by force."

Charge Conspiracy

Archibald E. Stevenson, WCAE general counsel, wrote the commission that the Communist party is a combination of two or more persons conspiring "to overthrow, put down, or destroy by force the government of the United States."

"Under these circumstances," he said, "it is my opinion that any broadcasting station aware of the facts which permit Earl Browder to use its facilities to forward the conspiracy becomes itself an accessory and party to the conspiracy."

The correspondence was made public by Elisha Hanson, attorney for Hearst.

lead America in some exalted purpose."

"I can think of nothing more useful to generations to follow," he said, "than a dedication of your lives to a doctrine of liberty and repudiation of the doctrine of force."

"In the world are half a dozen large and powerful nations armed to the teeth, increasing their armaments, exhausting the resources of science to play for economic advancement by force."

"People who surrender to the dictatorships surrender their principles of liberty and surrender to the will of an individual."

Baker, speaking without notes, said "with all the difficulties of democracy, it is better than the rule of either king or dictator."

"This does not mean we should be held to the Constitution as an unchanging document," he said. "It may well be that the Constitution now and then should have amendments."

Method of Change

"Change should come through democratic discussion and action and not by supine obedience to its violation."

Clark said he felt the next congress would enact legislation to take the profits out of war.

"But, if we are drawn into a conflict," he said, "we must not have the inequalities of sacrifice which marked the last war."

Payment of the bonus, which made possible an attendance of 250,000, four times larger than ever before, was mentioned briefly in Clark's speech.

"The bonus was not a gift," Sen. Clark said, "but payment of a delayed debt."

The 15,000 seats in the hall were filled early for the opening of the session. National Commander J. Ray Murphy gavelled the convention to order by striking a large, shiny "Liberty Bell" mounted on the platform.

More bands and rum and bugle corps than ever before have been assembled blared both in and outside the hall. Those legionnaires who could not jam their way inside paraded through downtown streets, entertaining Clevelanders with their usual bluster.

With six persons injured already by miniature field pieces and other toy firearms, the Legion's executive committee denounced their use.

Martial highlight of the convention will be its annual parade Tuesday.

Preliminary yesterday to the convention's opening, was dedication of the American Legion cultural gardens—a permanent memorial—in the city's Rockefeller Park.

"I do not attempt to interpret the inner workings of his mind. Furthermore, I have never said by direct or indirect personal statement that he willingly or unwillingly, passively or impulsively, receives the support of the bloody bolshevist tyranny at Moscow."

"I have simply said, and proved by actual and accurate quotation, that he does receive such support from the enemies of our system of government, and that he has done his utmost in act and utterance while in office to secure and justify such support."

"I do not find any pleasure in an American in saying this of an American president, but it is the truth."

"And as I am not a shifty, prevaricating politician, but for over fifty years have endeavored to serve my country as an honorable and patriotic journalist, I am compelled in fairness to my readers to tell the truth."

It has been estimated that the public debt of the federal, state and local governments of the United States now exceeds $50,000,000,000.

Police News

After Mrs. Charles Bartlett, Stanton, reported to sheriff's officers that the Bartlett service station, Kates and Stanton roads, was damaged early Saturday by a motorist who left the scene when his car collided with the station, officers investigated, learning the driver was Andy Andreoli, Gardner Grove, they said. Andreoli settled the Bartlett complaint by agreeing to pay $20 damages, the officers were informed.

PUBLISHER IN ATTACK ON FDR

The White House statement, signed by President Roosevelt's assistant secretary, Stephen Early, was issued Saturday in anticipation of the attack on the administration that appeared in the Hearst newspapers Sunday morning. This attack was based upon an article by Earl Browder, head of the Communist party of America, in the Russian edition of the Communist International, a publication in various languages. It quoted from the article as follows: "Communists can join in supporting Roosevelt."

The article charged also that Browder worked directly under the orders of the Moscow government, that he wished to re-elect President Roosevelt in 1936 as a prelude to formation of a strong and revolutionary Farmer-Labor party in 1940. He wished the defeat of Gov. Alf M. Landon, the article charged, because his election would make this program impossible.

Browder Replies

Yesterday Browder and the Daily Worker, the organ of the Communist party, replied. The Worker said that what Browder had actually written, in a plea for a united front against reaction through a Farmer-Labor party, was:

"We Communists can enter such a united front with workers who support Roosevelt. Of course we do not commit ourselves to Roosevelt in any way by this."

"The dots of omission in the Hearstian misquotation speak for themselves. They are the weapons of a desperate man, using such words as serve his purposes in deliberately distorting what has been said. Such have been always the methods of liars and charlatans, at the head of which class stands William Randolph Hearst."

The "supposedly secret" documents published by the Hearst newspapers, he said, "could all be read in the Daily Worker in April and May, in their original English, without Hearst's distortions and lies attached."

"We are an American party, making our own decisions and having received no instructions from Moscow," a la Hearst."

Hearst's statement was dated Amsterdam, Holland. Saying that the president did not have the frankness to say "to whom he refers in the statement, nor has he had the sincerity to state his complaint accurately," Hearst continued:

"Nevertheless, since his conglomerate party of Socialists, Communists, and renegade Democrats has consistently, and rather ridiculously, tried to make me an issue in their muddled campaign, I think I am justified in assuming that I am the object of the statement and that I may courteously endeavor to correct Mr. Roosevelt's misstatements and to set him right."

Charges Repudiation

He alleged that President Roosevelt, though elected on the Democratic platform "and on the pledges he made continually throughout his campaign," to support it in its entirety, "was no sooner elected than he repudiated the Democratic platform and the established policies of the Democratic party since its inception, and adopted the platform of the Karl Marx Socialists in almost every word and letter."

"If I can say so without offense," Hearst continued, "I do not think that Mr. Roosevelt has a great deal of knowledge. His administration has proved that."

"Still, he surely must know that this bolshevist tyranny in Moscow whom he had recognized—continually plots and plans and openly advocates the overthrow of all established forms of government in other nations, including the overthrow of the republic of the United States."

Funeral arrangements will be announced later by the Hilgenfeld funeral home, Anaheim.

"Mr. Roosevelt must know that this bolshevist tyranny openly proposes to secure the overthrow of the American system of government by the boring from within which Professor Frankfurter preaches, the surging forward of the workers and the farmers, in class conflict which M. Tugwell advocates, and the action and actual revolution which Mr. Richberg calls as here."

Clark said he felt the next congress would enact legislation to take the profits out of war.

Payment of the bonus, which made possible an attendance of 250,000, four times larger than ever before, was mentioned briefly in Clark's speech.

CONTEST OVER DOLPH WILL IS PARLEY IN S. F. IS APPROVED

Because of the short crop in Washington and Oregon this year, another amendment would exempt from the surplus obligation provisions walnuts produced in those two states during the present crop year and handled during the year. Any packer of such walnuts may at his option meet in full or in part the surplus obligation that would be imposed by the agreement if the exemption were not in effect.

Other amendments seek to clarify the agreement.

Notices of Intention to MarryPOSTMASTERS OF COUNTY GET INSTRUCTIONS

BY GEORGE E. HART

Revised civil service regulations governing postmasters, known as the new Farley code, were disclosed to Democratic postmasters of Orange county at a recent meeting in San Clemente.

There was no significance in the fact that the postmasters were summoned to San Clemente, home of Hamilton H. Cotton, the Patrorage Papa. It was merely logical.

By an odd coincidence, Mr. Cotton was at the meeting. In fact, he was guest of honor. In fact, he announced the new regulation, as follows:

1-The old regulation that postmasters are supposed to deliver mail, is revised to read: "deliver votes."

2-Postmasters must stay out of politics. Anyway, Republican postmasters.

3-If Democratic postmasters engage in politics, they must cross their fingers. That makes it unofficial.

4-Democratic campaign contributions from postmasters are fixed at a minimum of three per cent of annual salary.

5-The mail must go through. That means Jim Farley's franked political speeches, formerly the congressional record.

Some postmasters were said to have expressed dissatisfaction with Article 4, fixing the three per cent minimum for campaign contributions. Relief workers, they pointed out, are squeezed for less sugar. At one look from Mr. Cotton, harmony was restored.

Mr. Cotton is very popular with the postmasters. They affectionately call him "Ham." And all pretended not to notice when one immature postmaster made a slip and affectionately called him "Pork."

The meeting then proceeded to a non-political discussion of business. Mr. Farley's franked speeches having been assured preferred distribution, the postmasters crossed their fingers, under the new Farley code, and planned means of keeping Mr. Roosevelt and themselves in office.

Mr. Cotton, in genial mood, made a speech. "You're a fine bunch of postmasters and I'm proud of putting you in your jobs," he told them, though much more tactfully than here reported. "You're doing good work," he went on, remembering how Horace Head, the Democratic campaign manager, had put the bee on the postmasters for three per cent. "Keep it up," he added, and several postmasters flinched.

The immature postmaster unfortunately misunderstood Mr. Cotton.

"I think we're doing good work, Mr. Cotton," he said brightly. "I'm getting quite a few compliments on the mail service in my office."

"Don't be funny," snapped Ham.

4 PLACES ARE BURGLARIZED OVER WEEKEND

Four burglaries, two of which involved a furniture burglar reported active here last May and June, and two petty thefts were reported to city police over the weekend.

Cutting a screen from a rear bedroom window at the home of John Tessmann, 309 East Seventeenth street, Saturday evening while the family was absent, a burglar entered, stole two Y. G. Honor society keys, a Business and Professional Women's club pin, cuff links, flashlight, and a book, "Facts About Science," and was about to steal suitcase full of clothing and a rug when the Tessmanns returned home. The burglar fled without taking the clothing or rug.

The same evening, a man believed to be the same burglar, entered the home of Clifford E. Crawford, 1811 North Broadway, and stole two $12 Axminster rugs. At the Tessmann place, the burglar had packed the suitcase with clothing and had started to roll up the rug, when the family returned.

On May 29, the same burglar, it is believed, entered the C. T. Laxton place, 1720 Bush, and on June 4, the F. E. Saylor place, 410 East Washington, stealing a quantity of household goods, according to Detective Lieutenant Charles W. Welford who is investigating the weekend burglaries.

A burglar entered the J. H. Stickler place, 506 McFadden street, some time between last Wednesday and Sunday, stealing a purse containing $20, from a front room desk. Stickler informed police. Yesterday afternoon or evening, a burglar broke a lock on a garage at the L. R. Eckley home, 302 South Garnsey, and stole a phonograph, Eckley said.

Mrs. Roy King, 408 West Nineteenth, said her car was parked beside the American Legion hall, recently when thieves stole a $3.50 boy's jacket from it. Thieves stole headlight rims and lenses from the car of A. B. Lindberg, Finley hotel, Saturday night, while the car was parked behind the hotel.

Mighty Colorado Finally Tamed

An electrical impulse released by President Roosevelt at the opposite side of the continent sent 3,600,000 cubic feet of water a minute tumbling through the 12 outlets at the Boulder Dam and put the mighty Colorado River to work. This air view shows a general view of the great dam at its formal opening with mighty Niagara of water pouring from outlets on both sides of the dam.

BUSINESS HOUSES OF CITY TO BE ORGANIZED BY CHEST LEADERS FOR ANNUAL DRIVE

Starting their work immediately after an instruction meeting at 9 o'clock this morning at Campaign Headquarters at 114 East Fifth street, 16 majors in the Establishments division in the campaign began organizing 162 business and industrial concerns for solicitation of employees.

This department of the campaign, to convince everyone of the necessity under the direction of R. Carson of sharing according to his ability in this community program of charity and welfare," Mr. Smith concluded.

Each major will handle the campaign in about ten concerns, obtaining the cooperation of the head of the organization and appointing company chairmen to handle the solicitation.

Those acting as majors in this group are: Rodney Bacon, A. G. Greene, Dwight Hamilton, C. W. Hill, Iris Kroese, Malcolm Macurda, Ben Manker, Milan Miller, Loren Moore, Ralph Raitt, Bill Sebastian, E. B. Sharpley, Wilbur Shook, Ivie Stein, E. Wagner, Gil Ward.

The campaign council of the Community Chest composed of leaders in the campaign organization, representatives of organized groups in the city, and other prominent citizens, held a second meeting at noon today at the Green Cafeteria where plans for this week's work in preparation for the $35,656.70 fund raising campaign were made.

"Every effort will be made to arrange pledge methods which will not work a hardship on anyone," Mr. Smith explained.

"Installment payments over a period of several months instead of cash gifts will be suggested. So far as possible, arrangements will be made so that those employees who wish may authorize small deductions from their pay checks to be forwarded to the Chest, thus making subscription payments easier for the subscriber and reducing cost of collection.

"No coercion or high pressure methods will be tolerated and instead an effort will be made to

30 PETITIONS FOR LEMKE ARE BEING SIGNED

Thirty party petitions seeking to place the name of William Lemke, Farmer-Labor candidate, on the ballot in California, are being circulated in Orange county, according to word reaching County Clerk J. M. Backs today.

The petitions must be filed with Backs not later than September 24, according to law. He then has five days in which to check the signatures, to determine whether they are qualified electors, before forwarding the petitions to the secretary of state, in Sacramento.

It is reported that the Lemke petitions have now received about 90,000 signatures in the state, of the required 118,043 to qualify the candidate.

California election law, said Backs, requires such petitions to receive signatures equal to five per cent of the total vote cast in the last preceding general election, which was 2,360,916 in 1932.

REGISTRATION BOOKS CLOSE ON THURSDAY

Three more days remain in which to register for the general election of November 3, prospective voters of Orange county were warned today by County Clerk J. M. Backs, who reported indications of the customary closing spurt in registration as the deadline nears. The books will be closed next Thursday night.

Backs said he anticipates an increase in the county registration total amounting to 1500 or more, as compared to the August primary registration, which totaled 62,832. On that basis the November registration would approximate 65,000.

The increase from the May presidential primary to the August primary amounted to 2756. In May the total was 60,077.

Registration depots out of Backs' office are located in every community of the county, and the city clerks in each city also are deputized to register voters.

Not only those who are not now registered, but those who have moved to a new precinct, since they registered, or those who desire to change party affiliations, must do so by next Thursday, to qualify for the November election, said Backs.

FAHRENHEIT

Certain civil service employees have been complaining among themselves (but not aloud) about various little pressures exerted upon them for campaign contributions. Some of this solicitation is reported to be subtle, and some not so subtle. In fact, one letter, which comes "straight to the point" in the first sentence, was probably not authorized.

Charges and counter-charges will undoubtedly soon center around this phase, but it is nothing unusual. All these three related varieties of pressure have been used in nearly every campaign. Politicians expect it, and use it to the fullest wherever they can.

Off the record, they will admit they would be foolish if they failed to.

EXPENDITURES

A political promoter was going through his opponent's campaign expenditures statement in the office of the clerk of the House. He grappled with it for half an hour, before exclaiming in exasperation: "These things are meant to confuse not only the layman—but the expert as well!" That is the answer for all of them.

The lists are submitted from time to time, because the law requires, but the law says nothing about making the accounting comprehensible. A common trick of political accountants is to refrain from adding up all the contributions and expenditures. Another is to file a separate report for each Income Tax Bill Repealed."

"This is one of the most important questions—if not the most important question—on the November ballot," said W. H. (Ted) Blanding, chairman of the arrangements committee and meeting chairman, today. "No citizen should make up his or her mind on this question of the income tax law until a thorough study has been made of the possible results of approval or disapproval of the proposition, in November.

"The meeting tomorrow night will give those who really want to vote for the interests of California and California people, an opportunity to obtain ideas on both sides of the question," he added.

The Forum for Political and Economic Education, headed by a group of private citizens, has for its sole purpose, public enlightenment through an exchange of ideas. Following the debate, guests will have opportunity to question the speakers and to express their own views regarding income tax and its effects upon the economic field in this state.

LA HABRA

LA HABRA, Sept. 21.—The members of the Sweepstakes club were entertained recently by Mrs. H. R. Eller. A one o'clock luncheon was served at the Dinner Bell cafe, at tables centered with gallantries, and featuring yellow pottery. Contract bridge was played after the luncheon and prizes were won by Mrs. H. West, first; Mrs. Ralph Winger, second. Others present were Mrs. H. S. Lytle, Mrs. Henri Clayton, Mrs. Thomas Mahoney, Mrs. E. N. Cooke and Mrs. H. T. Shannon.

News Behind The News

By Paul Mallon

STABILITY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Business ordinarily fails victim to campaign palsy along about now in a presidential year. Operators decline to plan ahead, most lines adopt a restrained gait until after election.

The usual easing has not only failed to develop so far, but it is not likely to.

One reason is that President Roosevelt is said to be determined upon a campaign of strategy of spending and business encouragement. New Deal administrators generally understand they are to do or say nothing upsetting. No important governmental steps affecting business are expected before the people go to the polls.

Likewise, the many powerful congressional investigations, authorized at the last session, have been keeping their hands out of business men's hair. The La Follette committee is following only one line. The Black committee is dormant. The Wheeler investigation is off until after election. The campaign investigating committees are comparatively quiet. Furthermore, the Justice department is avoiding the usual campaign weapon of anti-trust suits.

Add to this the strong undercutting of industrial expansion, and you will see reasonable justification for the general expectation that fall business will continue to improve, in reversal of the usual trend.

PRESSURE

If anyone believes this expectation is due to lack of warmth inside the campaign, he does not know what is going on. The public speeches may have been exceptionally gentle so far, but the inner heat-generating influences on both sides have been turned on earlier than usual.

For example, two federal agencies invited their field agents down for a talk about 10 days ago.

These private conferences were held separately, and apparently for routine organization purposes, but agents who attended either conference came away with the same idea, namely: their personal economic future depended upon the re-election of Mr. Roosevelt. You would not suspect they would have to be told that, but they were.

Similarly, on the other side, there is the yarn about the Pennsylvania manufacturer who slipped into his pay envelopes recently a little white elephant. These bore no inscription and were the kind sold in gadget stores (usually marked "made in Japan"), but the employes were probably able to catch on.

FAHRENHEIT

Certain civil service employees have been complaining among themselves (but not aloud) about various little pressures exerted upon them for campaign contributions. Some of this solicitation is reported to be subtle, and some not so subtle. In fact, one letter, which comes "straight to the point" in the first sentence, was probably not authorized.

NEW OFFER IS MADE ON GAS RANGES HERE

Those who manage homes now have an unusual opportunity to modernize their kitchens by taking advantage of an offer being made by gas range manufacturers, dealers and gas companies for a limited period. Effective Monday, de luxe clock control gas ranges are being offered at reductions of at least $30, more than enough to pay the cooking bill for the average family for 21 months.

Down payments are as low as $5, low monthly payments that may be made over a long period and a full 10 per cent trade-in allowance on old ranges, regardless of condition, feature this sale.

"There hasn't been an opportunity like this for several years," Fred G. Merker, district manager of the Southern Counties Gas company here, said. "And because of rising prices there may not be another for a long time to come. Many far-sighted householders will find it cheaper to buy one of these modern gas ranges during the period of this offer than to continue using an old model, particularly in view of the liberal discount now being offered.

"All clock control ranges are included in this offer, with more than 50 different styles from which to choose. Some of these are 1937 models, many of which are being introduced in Southern California for the first time. Many include such marvelous improvements as low temperature oven burners, summer-saver top burners, temperature regulators and complete insulation, as well as the clock control. Also, these ranges are offered in the widest variety of colors to harmonize with kitchen interiors."

Local gas range dealers who are co-operating in this event include: Russell Plumbing company, Pacific Plumbing company, Knox & Stouf Plumbing company, Chandlers, Horton Furniture company, Dickey Furniture company, Orange County Appliance company, Slade & Johnson Appliance Shop, Montgomery Ward & company, Maroney's, Taylor Home Appliance, McFadden Dale hardware, Turner Radio company.

Shower Is Held In Garden Grove

GARDEN GROVE, Sept. 21.—The Gedney home on West Garden Grove boulevard was the scene of a pleasant affair Friday evening when Mrs. Laura Gedney, Mrs. Clyde Gedney and Miss Eleanor Hayes entertained with a loyette dinner in honor of Mrs. Alva Gedney.

Cootie was the diversion of the evening. First prize was awarded to Mrs. Marjorie Davis and consolation went to Mrs. Edna Hayward. The honorees received many attractive gifts.

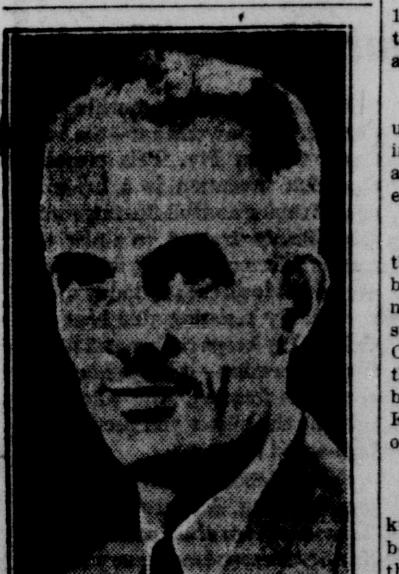

A blue and pink color scheme was carried out in decorations and nut cups of tiny baby scales. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served on individual trays to the following: Mrs. Jess Robinson, Mrs. Johnnie Kolb, Mrs. Albert Simmons, Mrs. Cynthia Carr, Mrs. Nellie Dunson, Mrs. B. S. Stanlake, Mrs. O. Henry, Mrs. Fanny Reeder, Mrs. Hermine Wyatts, Mrs. R. E. Linden, Mrs. Etta Chambers, Mrs. Marjorie Davis, Mrs. Edna Hayward, Mrs. Virginia Williams, Miss Ruth Ryan, Miss Katie Omar, the honoree, Mrs. Alva Gedney and the hostess group.

MINISTER HITS SECTARIANISM AS GOSPEL BAR

Charged with vagrancy, John Williams, 43, transient, was booked at county jail last evening, brought in by Constable George Bartley of Orange.

Both charged with immigration law violations, Ramon Solaro, 23, and Thomas Solaro, 49, of Pasadena, were brought to county jail yesterday afternoon by immigration officers to await prosecution.

Jerry Johnson, 38-year-old bartender from Alhambra, was arrested
Saturday evening by Sheriff
Logan Jackson and Deputy G. F.
McKelvey, and jailed on a charge of issuing fictitious checks, a felony.

Charged with violating his parole, Edward A. Knapp, 32, 414 1-2 West Fourth street, Santa Ana, was arrested Saturday afternoon by Deputy Sheriff A. W. Fullerton at a downtown cafe, and jailed.

And the only hope for the world's safety: the only hope for peaceable solution of the world's problems and disputes, lies in a return of the people to Jesus Christ, he warned.

The minister presented two powerful examples of the harm done by sectarianism—one abroad and the other at home in Santa Ana.

In India, 60,000,000 "untouchables" seeking to cast off the Hindu religion, refused the Christian religion in its place, he said, saying to those who offered them
the Christian religion: "No, we do not want your religion. You do not agree upon it yourselves.
That is not the religion for us."

In Santa Ana, the Rev. Mr. Buchanan estimated, not more than 3000 of the city's 35,000 population were attending church services as he spoke. There are 35 church denominations in Santa Ana, he said. Those outside of the church could not be convinced of the great truth of Christianity when those inside of the church do not agree upon it themselves, he declared.

Court Notes

Will N. Parsons, of Orange, today petitioned superior court to terminate the joint tenancy of the late property. Her death took place

September 15.

Rosa K. Diers and William F.
Diers have filed a petition in superior court to probate the will of the late Henry Diers, of Santa Ana, who left a $40,000 estate to his wife, Rosa, as principal heir, with legacies of $500 each to four grandchildren. Theodore Bach, of Chicago; Dorothy, Harvey and Barbara Pease of Orange. The will further provided that the wife should present $25 to each grandchild every Christmas.

Frank Archuleta who complained that his wife, Allie Archuleta, had deceived both the court and himself, gained an order by Superior Judge G. K. Scovell setting aside the wife's recent decree of divorce, which the husband had not contested. Archuleta told the court that he and his wife had been reconciled and lived together after she filed her divorce suit, and she told him she was dropping it, so that he did not appear to contest it.

WRITING — TO SELL —

By ETHEL K. LOCKWOOD

TAKE YOUR TIME!

I believe I have one thing in-average beginning writer reads.
Therein lies one of the reasons why he produces trash. How can he know what the editors are buying if he doesn't read the stories that have been sold and printed?

I am not accusing any beginner of anything I have not done myself.
In fact, it is because I have done just such things, that I know how destructive they are.

Let us suppose you have a really good story idea. It is so good it NEARLY sells a half-baked story. NEARLY—but not quite. Then, after you have shipped the first draft around to every editor who might be interested in material of that type, you develop sufficient skill to tell the tale really well. By this time you have exhausted your markets. If you had written it well the first time, you would undoubtedly have made a sale.

Practice Makes Perfect

A tiresome old adage, but as workable today as it ever was.
Don't be impatient with those first efforts. Study before you mail them out, not afterward.
Uncle Sam doesn't need that stamp money any more than you do. Hold those scripts a little longer, and give him the laugh.

A beginner's first ideas are almost invariably trite. That isn't any disparagement of his ability.
It simply means that he has absorbed a lot of material that is human, interesting, and would be perfectly good if it hadn't been used so often before. But he can see—and think. He has imagination. All he needs to make a start is practice in selecting material, and practice in putting it on paper.

I know how hard it is to discard a manuscript. I have done it many times. So can you, and you should. Don't hang onto those dog-eared stories. Drop them in the trash burner and touch a match to them. If the basic idea was any good, it will stay with you and eventually develop into something worth while. YOU'VE BEEN PRACTICING. Remember that. Learning to walk—learning to talk—in the story-writing busness.

Keep At It!

It is not my intention to slow up your writing by this advice.
Keep writing, doing the best you can, but write for writing's sake, not to be devil editors. Remember—80 per cent of the material that pours into their offices is pure tripe, if tripe can be said to be pure. You don't want to add your script to this sorry pile. You want to be pretty sure you'll get at least a "Well, now—this has possibilities!" out of the reader into whose hands your story falls.

Old ideas, sloping writing, trite expressions—the world is full of these things. Let's not add to its burden.

It is amazing, when you get right down to facts, how little the world needs.

FERRELL FINDS HE ISN'T BIGGER THAN HIS BALL CLUB

It was about time Joe Cronin put them to crack down when occasion demands.

Cronin firing Wesley Ferrell and firing the Carolinian $1000 for taking a runout powder while under fire at Yankee Stadium is an indication that the young manager of the Boston Red Sox finally is convinced that the late John McGraw and others of his type had the right idea.

McGraw ruled with an iron hand. Frank Frisch, disciple of the old Giant leader, has been singularly successful with the St. Louis Cardinals in using his methods. From bat boy to the great "Dizzy" Dean, it's the best they've got or get out with Frisch.

The baseball manager who tries to be a good fellow on the job doesn't last long. I suspect that it is just as well for Cronin that he obtained a five-year contract when he shifted from Washington to Boston in the spring of 1935.

Cronin attempted to humor costars, instead of bluntly telling them what he expected and demanding that they earn their fat salaries. The result was that the club got out of hand.

Cronin for weeks started pre-game meetings with, "Now, boys, I am the manager." Soon one of the more flippant members of the Red Sox, who plainly didn't know how lucky he was to be working for such a generous owner as Tom Yawkey, thought it would be fun to beat his boss to his daily introductory remark. Other players took up the chant.

When athletes become as derisive as that, there isn't much difference and trouble such as that with Ferrell isn't far behind.

TERRY GOES ALONE

Bill Terry and Rogers Hornsby are other managers who modeled themselves after McGraw, under whom they played. Both have their faults, but there is none who does not respect them.

Terry had roomed with quiet Travis Jackson for years when he was appointed head of the Polo Grounders in 1933. The first thing Memphis Bill did was room by himself. It was his tip to his teammates that he was to be the boss with all hands being treated alike.

Hornsby is a baseball tyrant, but he had the reputation of being the smartest manager of them all until cast in his present role with the Browns, who are largely composed of culls.

McKeechne and Steve O'Neill are fine men around whom players rally, but both are capable of laying down the law.

The one criticism of Pie Traynor is that he is too easy-going, which also may be the fault of Casey Stengel and Jimmy Wilson.

Cronin himself and Outfielder "Tilt" Cramer have been the only two Red Sox regulars who have hustled consistently since the club first showed signs of bogging down.

The others appeared to give up when the pitching collapsed.

Ferrell's keen desire to win is commendable, but his temperamental dodos put managers on the spot and destroyed the morale of clubs with which he performed. Wesley was a constant source of worry to Roger Peckinpah and Walter Johnson in Cleveland.

Ferrell had ashed out of the box without permission from Cronin before, and had threatened to quit pitching when a relief worker was sent to the bullpen, which was necessary if the Hub aray ever hoped to extinguish the enemy's fire.

Cronin's long delayed stand in the Ferrell case may be the means of forcing other Red Sox with inflated opinions of their ability to snap out of it.

There is no room in baseball for the chap who considers himself bigger than his club and the game.

POOR KICKING BEATS FULLERTON JAYSEE

Fischer Keeps U.S. Golf Title At Home

FULLERTON, Sept. 21.—Taking advantage of the Yellowjackets' mediocre booting, Pomona college pushed back Fullerton Jaysees' football team and then scored on two sudden thrusts to earn a 13 to 0 victory here Saturday.

Pomona scored first on a pass from Bob Jenks to Tweedy and Carlton converted.

In the fourth period Earl Craven broke through the jacket line, batted down Lambert's attempted pass and then caught the ball in the air and ran 4 yards to the second touchdown.

GIANTS CAN CLINCH FLAG WITH 2 WINS

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—(UP)—It was all over but the shouting in the race for the National league championship today. The Giants continued their victory surge, and thousands of New York fans were oiling up their lungs for an outburst of world series hysteria.

Two more victories will give the Giants the pennant outright, and one more win will put them in a tie for first place, regardless of what the Cubs and Cards do.

The see-saw fight for second place continued, with Chicago taking the runner-up position and dropping St. Louis into third place. Bill Lee outpitched the much-worked "Dizzy" Dean for the Cub 4-3 victory.

Pixley's Death Machine Takes Second Victim

HAMMOND, Ind., Sept. 21.—(UP)—George Connors, Los Angeles, was seriously hurt when his entry in the 50-mile feature at Roby speedway overturned before 20,000 spectators. It was the same car in which Ray Pixley of Fullerton, Cal., was killed here Aug. 30.

Rex Maya, Glendale, Cal., won the race, with Ted Horn, Glendale, second, and Frank Brisko, Milwaukee, third.

Landon Candidacy Aided By Federal Funds In Kansas!

The Republican National Committee has repeatedly made the grave charge—without a scrap of evidence to sustain it—that the Roosevelt Administration is using the $4,800,000,000 work relief appropriation as a campaign fund.

On the contrary, the evidence is conclusive that the man in America who has profited most by the non-partisan relief activities of the Hungry youngsters eating school lunches provided by WPA.

Federal Government is Gov. Alfred M. Landon of Kansas.

Federal money saved the wheat farmers of Kansas, and it saved the oil business, according to Gov. Landon's own testimony. Federal money made it possible for the people of Kansas to pay their local, county and state taxes—THUS INSURING A BALANCED BUDGET FOR KANSAS.

It should be borne in mind that every cent of the $448,198,000 received by Kansas was requested by Gov. Landon, who deluged Washington with appeals for help by letter, telephone, telegraph and personal visits. He gave his pledge word that federal money was necessary to save his people from suffering and privation.

IT SHOULD BE BORNE IN MIND ALWAYS THAT GOV. LANDON IS JUST AS RESPONSIBLE MORALLY FOR THE SPENDING OF THAT MONEY AS IS PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT. IF GOVERNOR LANDON CONDEMNS FEDERAL SPENDING, HE CONDEMNS HIMSELF.

GOV. LANDON TESTIFIES

Federal spending saved Kansas, and made possible the fiscal record upon which the Governor was nominated for the Presidency. In fact, the conclusion is inevitable that if it were not for federal spending, Gov. Landon might now be home plucking sunflowers in comparative quiet instead of subjecting himself to the rigors and nervous strain of national campaigning.

When Gov. Landon was campaigning for renomination in 1934, he very frankly recognized what the federal policies had done for his State. In a campaign speech, printed in Senator Capper's newspaper, he said:

"Well, if the Democrats won't stand up for the relief program and its administration, I will do it for them."

"I say, that considering the problems they have met, they have done a good job, and I am glad to have co-operated with them."

MR. HAMILTON TESTIFIES

Another witness for the Roosevelt Administration is that man of restrained language, Mr. John D. M. Hamilton, who charged in 1934 that the Democratic candidate for Governor, Omar B. Ketchum, was criticizing the Roosevelt relief policies. In an indignant rejoinder to Ketchum Mr. Hamilton said:

"I think, therefore, that there is nothing in the record of the last two years to indicate that Mr. Roosevelt or his assistants have distributed federal funds—upon a purely partisan basis, as Mr. Ketchum would like to have us believe, and that we may be assured that the distribution of federal moneys does not depend upon the political character of the State's Administration."

"Thus from the facts we know that there is no basis in truth that a Democratic State Administration would in itself and of itself place us in a more advantageous light with the Federal Government."

Police News

Watermelon thieves were active late last night at the ice house, Fifteenth and Main, J. H. Gentry reported to city police. He said the thieves, or would-be thieves, were boys. Officers W. E. B. Sherwood and L. C. Snodgrass reported the boys had disappeared when they arrived on the scene.

Report of a prowler who was using a flashlight at 1421 North Main late last night was investigated by Officers W. B. Moreland and Ralph Pantuso. The prowler and flashlight had disappeared when the officers arrived.

K. W. Harris, 305 North Sycamore, and Mabel L. Pinney, Tustin, reported to city police late last night that miscreants broke two locks on the Pinney car, twisted the rear license plate and pulled all of the ignition wires off, while the car was parked in a vacant lot.

Arrested by Riverside sheriff's deputies Saturday, Fernando Cruz Espinoza, 26, former Orange county resident now living in Thermal, was returned here by Assistant Police Chief Harry Fink and jailed, to await prosecution on a charge of reckless driving. Espinoza said he was at Thermal, employed as a date picker.

Suffering slight cuts about the face after an alleged argument, Raymond Corona, 314 Central, yesterday afternoon complained to city police that E. F. Hardy, pool hall proprietor at 2309 South Main, allegedly struck him. Hardy declared Corona assertedly was drinking and creating a disturbance at his place when the altercation occurred. Officers Charles W. Welford and C. V. Adams advised Corona to "wait until you are sober, if you wish to prosecute," according to their report.

Others present were Mrs. Justin Swope, Mrs. George Pierce, Mrs. Charles Baumstar, Mrs. Harold Redelberger, Mrs. Charles Williamson and Mrs. Willard Looney.

G. O. P. In Fight For Constitution, A New Deal Bogy

Sh-h-h! Mustn't criticize the Administration.

You'll lose your job.

Perhaps land in jail.

Or be accused of not paying your taxes.

It's pretty hard to think such things would come to happen right here in America. Maybe, for most of us, they won't.

Of course, there was the Elm. Hagood case, and the case where the Marine Band and Navy speakers were called away from a women's meeting because another of the speakers had criticized President Roosevelt's policies.

And there was also the unloosening of a hordes of snoopers to go through the telegraph company files of messages from private individuals

Landon on the Constitution

"Our Government was founded to give life to certain vital principles. The people embodied these basic principles of human rights in the federal and state Constitutions. Thus, the people themselves, of their own free will, set up this Government. And it is still the Government of the people. Any change which the people want they can have by following the procedure they themselves laid down.

"But for any official or branch of government to attempt such a change, without authority from the people, is to do an unwarranted and illegal act. It is a substitution of personal for constitutional government."—Gov. Landon in his acceptance speech.

uals without any prior showing of "probable cause." But those things don't happen every day to the average citizen.

The reason?

THE CONSTITUTION—that irritant to President Roosevelt and Secretary Wallace and the Brain Trust which is trying to "remake America."

THE CONSTITUTION PROTECTS US.

This is Constitution Day—Sept. 17. It is the 149th anniversary of the day on which a handful of patriotic men, lovers of freedom, adopted the greatest charter of civil liberty the world has known. Washington, Franklin, Madison, Wilson, Hamilton—and Jefferson later, who ratified the Bill of Rights contained in the first ten amendments) were among the Americans who founded this government of checks and balances, which keeps sovereignty with the people—protects them against unfeigned by government.

It tells those whom the people elevate to power how far they may go, but permits them always to report back to the people for more authority. They can suggest amendments to the Constitution, or they can suggest changes in the method by which the Constitution may be amended. They cannot cut through the Constitution without flouting the people's rights.

G. O. P. for Constitution

It is of no purpose to quote statements from various New Deal leaders. All the world knows that the President and the New Deal have squirmed under the necessity of considering the basic rights of the people—often of the minorities which have the same right to protection in the fundamental things of life as the majorities—in their efforts to use the public treasury and fashion general legislation for vote-getting purposes.

The Republican Party believes in the Constitution. It knows there is an orderly method by which it may be changed. The team that plays fair football doesn't hide the ball under halfback's sweater. There is no more occasion to go outside the Constitution than there is to go outside the rules of the game. If one person can make his own rules so can another, and some will want to make rules against racial, religious, class or sectional freedom, and if there are precedents of stepping outside the Constitution, the whole structure of fair, democratic government will collapse right then.

Frank O. Lowden, the distinguished former Governor of Illinois, makes this statement on Constitution Day:

"The principles underlying the Constitution . . . are not true simply because the Constitution recites them. They are true because mankind, in its efforts for a better, more just society, had found that the maintenance of these principles is the condition of all human progress. Those principles are not sound simply because the Constitution declares them so. The Constitution is sound because it recognizes and gives expression to these fundamental human rights."

The Republican Party is defending the Constitution of the United States in this campaign. There is no possibility of questioning the position of the Republican nominee. Many hundreds of speakers for the Republican National Committee are fighting for the retention of this anchor of freedom.

ORANGE COUNTY BOYS CAPTURE CUPS AT FAIR

Orange county boys captured two cups in the junior fair livestock show at the L. A. County fair this year. Lester Paulin of Orange received a first prize ribbon and a cup on his single comb white Leghorn cock for the best fowl exhibited in the American class. John Hastings of Anaheim took a first and a cup for the best fowl in the Mediterranean class, on his pullet exhibited in a pen of Anconas.

Other awards to Orange county boys in the livestock division of the Junior fair went to Gordon Sieveke, of Anaheim. He won a second prize on his Rhode Island Red young hen; Evelyn Truxler of Anaheim took a special first prize on her pen of light Brahmas; Everett Ristow a third prize on his single comb White Leghorn hen; Billy Purdy of Olive took second and fifth on his White Leghorn hens; Richard Ristow of Orange, took a third prize on his White Leghorn cock.

Bruce Geeker of Olive took a third place on his steel gray Flemish rabbit; Joseph Leib took second on a silver bar homer pigeon cock and first, second and third places on other exhibits of blue check homer cocks. Clair Wakenham of Anaheim took second place on his Hereford in the beef cattle division and Paul Foss of Yorba Linda a first on his Berkshire sow.

Exhibits in the apriary division had not yet been judged, but Joseph Leib of Anaheim had on exhibit a single and double frame of bees; and Jim Laufer of La Habra exhibited extracted honey.

Jimmy Fidler in HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 19.—(Dear reader: Skip me today if you are in cheery humor. My mood is crabby, and I shall take advantage of it to air a few peevish. JF.)

I withhold the name of the writer of the following letter because groom themselves for careers. Girls whose only charm are the usual number of arms and legs—oh, very leggy!—attached to the conventional chassis, endued with so-so personalities, and ushered into Hollywood on waves of hullabaloo. And then? As soon as possible they are quietly shipped home to moth-eaten oblivion.

"Why shouldn't I—and others like me—make my dent in the thick skull of moviedom (what a hard nut to crack)? I photograph well—I might say extremely well, and possess more natural and acquired talent than the average contest winner. How many of those winners have worked as hard as I to acquire lovely voices and perfect diction? How many sacrificed dates, dances and good times to study? How many performed unpaid before audiences to gain the popularity and sureness experience provides?"

Her charges are painfully correct. Studio talent scouts with few exceptions are huge jokers. Most of them are utterly leg-minded; few recognize talent as it parades under their noses. These scouts are usually poor relations or friends of studio bosses, not bright enough to occupy studio jobs. They must be given work, so they become talent scouts.

It is a pity the studios are making no effective effort to unearth talent buried in cities and hamlets far removed from Hollywood. With the stage fading as a source of new material, it seems obvious the movies should scour the highways and byways but I see few signs of such activity. Ah well, the ways of Hollywood cannot be explained by one so simple as I. For years this funny business has bewildered me. The older I grow, the more bewildered.

Jane Withers' mother spent months trying to impress studio scouts. When they crashed Hollywood they had been allotted six months by Mr. Withers in which to succeed. Time and again they went to studios to be interviewed, always in lines with scores of other children. Always the casting directors picked prettier children and passed Jane by. Each time this happened (Mrs. Withers told me the other night) Jane would strut from the studio with an encouraging, "Come on, Ma; we'll get something next time." But for Jane's buoyancy, Mrs. Withers might have surrendered the fight early.

Crabby peev No. 2: Nothing is more irritating than rehashes of time-worn publicity yarns which unimaginative press agents fire out of their studios and expect people to believe. I refer to such wild tales as "Clark Gable to enter fight ring" and the very recent "Ape chases Dorothy LaMour." Every time a studio produces an animal picture, a press agent announces that a star has been chased by a lion or bear or visiting Elk. How refreshing it is when a writer reverses proceedings just once, "Dorothy LaMour chases ape, but I—ah well."

Crabby peev No. 3: Not until you have attended a Hollywood party can you understand that a superlative may apply to several persons at once. I mean ordinarily.

It has been a bad day, folks. Hollywood is really a lovely place, and the great majority of stars are good fellows. But my corns have been hurting me all morning. I guess you know how it is.

Mammoth SALE!

DE LUXE Gas Ranges
WITH CLOCK CONTROL

REDUCTIONS $30 AND UP

THERE hasn't been a sale like this in several years. Because of rising prices there may not be another for a long time to come. • During the previous sale — at the very depth of the depression — nearly 14,000 gas ranges were snapped up by householders in this region. • We had to advise the public in large announcements at the end of the fifth day weeks to fill the orders.

All Manufacturers and Dealers • Now again every dealer and every manufacturer who sells ranges in this territory is cooperating with the gas companies to make these savings possible. • The savings are $30, $35 and more on the newest De Luxe ranges. • Down payment is only $5, with liberal terms. • Many of the ranges have marvelous improvements. Low temperature oven control for baking angel cake, fruit cake and for dependable canning. • High speed oven burners — so fast they enable you to bake biscuits without pre-heating the oven. • Newest top burners for quick heat, complete combustion and non-clogging operation. • Simmer-save top burners for waterless cooking as well as utmost economy.

10% for Your Old Range • In addition to the sale price, you get a full 10% trade-in allowance for your old range — no matter what its condition. • Make your selection now. Don't wait until the best models are gone. • Remember — every De Luxe clock control range is on sale.

OPEN SESSIONS

ON WEDNESDAYMiniature "Fair" Now
At Bowers Museum

By MALCOLM BOSTWICK

With world, national, state and county fairs on the loose throughout the United States, publicized to the four corners of something or other, it is a pleasure to announce the miniature "fair" now going on at Santa Ana's Bowers Memorial museum, Twenty-first and Main streets.

Miss June Kruse arrived in town yesterday, to take charge of all last-minute preparations in connection with The Register cooking school, to open Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Legion hall. Miss Kruse is most enthusiastic about the forthcoming event, for she feels that she has something to offer that will be of genuine interest and value to the women of Santa Ana. Said Miss Kruse, "I am looking forward to my three-day visit with the women here, for the many lovely homes lead me to believe that they are much interested in home making, and in keeping up with the newest and most modern in this line. I have given a great deal of time and thought to this cooking course, in order to present only up-to-date and worth while recipes, menus, and house-hold information."

Miss Kruse went on to explain that she felt that in the fall and winter season most attention is given to meal preparation, to entertaining, and to the subject of food in its many phases. With vacation days over, and the children back in school once more, it is only natural that more time should be spent indoors in the care of the house, and in the planning and cooking of good things to eat. Also, with the children leaving early for a long day at school, the problem of hot, nourishing food for them becomes more important, just as it is important for every member of the family during colder days.

Miss Kruse says that she has taken these problems into consideration in preparing her programs, and that special emphasis will be placed upon the preparation of wholesome, nourishing meals for children of school age, and upon practical everyday dishes for the family dinners. There will also be many suggestions for smart entertaining during the fall season, with clever suggestions for adding original touches without great expense. The program for the three-day

TO BE SOUGHT
BY RED CROSS

The enrollment of 7000 Red Cross members in the November roll call is the minimum goal of the four Red Cross chapters in Orange county, it was announced today by Mrs. Laura R. Warren, executive secretary to the Orange county council, following the recent council meeting in the chamber of commerce office at Orange. The meeting was presided over by Lloyd Perry, chairman of the Fullerton chapter.

The Orange chapter will seek 850 members; Anaheim, 800; Fullerton, 1600, and Santa Ana, 3750. The roll call plans were given particular attention by the council. Harry E. Welsh, roll call chairman of the Fullerton chapter, discussed his chapter's plans with the council.

Richard E. Ziegler, American Red Cross field director, navy landing, Long Beach, and special roll call field representative, was a speaker at the meeting. His talk was related to roll call and to his own particular service with the Red Cross and its national service to enlisted men in the navy, and the important part the home service department in the chapters plays in this work. Mr. Ziegler has been collaborating with the four chapters.

The election of council officers was postponed until the next meeting on October 16 in Anaheim. It was decided to invite the executive committee and board of directors of the host chapter to the council meetings.

Amateur Astronomer
Makes Own Telescope

By MARAH ADAMS

When Cecil Wilson, 715 West Second street, takes a look at the stars, the planets and the moon, they seem to be about 125 times nearer to him than they are to the average resident of the city. Wilson views the starry heavens through a telescope in his own back yard, a telescope which he made himself and which cost him less than $20 to assemble and which would have cost $400 if purchased outright.

Majoring in physics when a student, Wilson became interested in astronomy after he left school and after he was married. His telescope, mounted on a cement base, has a six and a half inch mirror, capable of bringing the heavenly bodies 125 times nearer than when seen with the naked eye, and he expects to start shortly to grind a 12-inch glass with which to bring them 350 to 500 times closer.

The first polishing of a mirror is done with carbondum and later jeweler's rouge, red as the deepest cosmetic, is used for the fine polish required to finish it. Wilson took two pieces of ordinary plate glass one and one-sixteenth inches thick and cut the two circles required himself. One circle is used as a tool to polish the circle designed for the mirror. Eighteen and a half hours were required by Wilson to bring the mirror he uses. After it is ground it may be dusted only by blowing.

Practical uses of the amateur telescope and work of the amateur astronomer are carried into important fields, it is learned. Through amateur associations, courses of many meteors have been traced and observations of variable stars made. Associations are world wide with a number in Southern California. Wilson hopes to form such an association in Orange county.

Like stamp collectors, amateur astronomers embrace all classes of men and women. King George III of England was said to have known his stars better than he did his colonies. The romance of astronomy is like the romance of other sciences, it opens limited fields and the finite glimpses with awe little of the glory and beauty of the infinite.

HONEY IS WINDFALL

TARBORO, N. C.—(UPI)—Mrs. George Howard was annoyed when the wind blew a huge oak tree across her front yard. Annoyance vanished when the cracked trunk of the tree revealed a swarm of bees and a large supply of fresh honey.

CHRIST'S LIFE IS DEPICTED IN PASSION PLAY

Residents of Orange county will be given an opportunity to see something that many persons have gone to Europe to see when the famous Passion Play, based on the tremendously dramatic life of Christ, is staged in the Santa Ana Municipal Bowl the evenings of Wednesday and Thursday, it was announced today by William Garvin, chairman of the Elks committee in charge of the event, sponsored here by the Elks lodge as a Christmas Basket fund benefit.

The Passion Players present the most dramatic scenes in the life of Christ, Garvin said today, including the Last Supper, Christ in the Garden, the Crucifixion, the Resurrection, the repentance of Mary Magdalene and many others. The enactment of these scenes by living persons properly trained and possessed of the necessary attitude of reverence for their subject, cannot but impress upon all those who see the Passion Play, Garvin said.

"The amazing story of the Passion Play tells the lovely and enthralling story of Christ" it was stated. "These events can never be regarded as of slight importance. Spiritually they provided a revolution in thought and conception of human rights that has altered the entire course of human history that has resulted in the most tremendous political, social and scientific upheavals the world has ever known.

"Viewed in that light alone, the reproduction of the events in the life of Christ is important to everyone, for through it a fuller understanding of those events and of their illimitable ramifications can be attained for young and old.

"The Passion Play also provides a means through which everyone can aid a Christian, humanitarian work, the work of giving the needy happiness at Christmas time. It is hoped that all residents of the county will be interested in seeing that the local presentation is a distinctive success."

Presiding at a shower of pretty appointments Friday night, Miss Hazel Schwarm extended a compliment to her future sister-in-law, Miss Alberta Stein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. F. Stein, 210 1/2 East Walnut street, whose marriage to Robert Schwarm will occur Friday evening, October 9 at 8 o'clock in Spurgeon Memorial Church.

In entertaining, Miss Schwarm was hostess in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Schwarm, 1030 North Parton street, Chrysanthemums and Cecil Brunner roses predominated in the many bouquets used in decorations. Games were played, with prizes going to Mrs. Kenneth Miller and Mrs. Latry Cannon, who held high and low scores.

Miss Stein was presented with an assortment of shower packages which contained a variety of lovely linens. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served at the evening's close.

Sharing the affair with Miss Schwarm were Miss Stein and her mother, Mrs. Stein; with Mrs. Mae Harwood, grandmother of the hostess; Misses F. R. Harwood, William Gregg, Alex Clark, LeRoy Levens, Kenneth Miller, Larry Cannon, Lloyd Kneeland; the Misses Lucille Cook, Phyllis Hefke, Janice Johnson, Mildred Goodwin, Erline Farmer, Alice Nelson, Barbara Crawford, all of this community; Mrs. C. Stanford Co-eds Honored
At Formal Musicale-Tea

Crowning a point on Lemon Heights so that it commands a vista of Peters canyon on one side and on the other, the folds of hill and plain to the sea, the delightful home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Crozier Phillips was rendezvous Saturday afternoon for Stanford Women's club members and their guests of honor, those Orange county girls who will be students this year at Stanford University.

Each autumn, when the call to school rings in the ears and hearts of young people, Stanford Women's club tenders to students of their alma mater, this friendly compliment.

As a result the honor guests leave for school with the comforting assurance that they already are a part of the university.

Saturday's tea lived up to the frame of its predecessors as a friendly and delightful affair, in whose planning all members of the organization had a part. Mrs. Phillips, opening her home so graciously, lent assistance to Mrs. J. Parley Smith (Gail Sleeth Smith), who as president of the club, was prominent in hostess duties.

Both were smartly attired in afternoon gowns of black crepe, Mrs. Smith's with a touch of Stanford's vivid red in the flowers at her throat.

Musical Interlude

Guests were grouped in the spacious living room for a brief program interval. This had been planned by Miss Lella Watson, who enlisted aid from one of her co-members of Community Players' association, Mary Batten Steffensen (Mrs. J. Leslie Steffensen). Her lilting and delightful soprano voice seemed exactly suited to the occasion, and her choice of songs was no less appropriate.

Mrs. Steffensen as president of Musical Arts, had the assistance of Miss Beaule Parker, also prominent in that organization, who not only was accompanist for the songs, but played a gaily modern piano solo, the concert transcription by David Guion of "Turkey in the Straw."

In the opening group of solos, Mrs. Steffensen expressed the folk music of various lands with "La Girometta," a sixteenth century Italian folk song; Purcell's "Passing" by Teresa Del Riego, and "Pajarillo" for the Mexican. For her second group she chose "Homecoming" by Teresa Del Diego, and "The Riddle" of Katherine Lockhart Manning's charming "Sketches of Paris," "Shoes" and "In the Luxembourg Garden."

Invited to the dining room for tea at the program's close, guests found a table charmingly exemplifying Stanford's colors with its bowl of deep red carnations mingled with white and greenery, and surrounded by tall red tapers on the cloth of Italian embroidery and lace. Mabel Dixson had planned the arrangement. Mrs. Rose Shafer of Tustin, presiding at the silver tea urn, was gowned in cinnamon red crepe with silver hat and sandals. Miss Margaret Swings of Huntington Beach at the opposite end of the table where the coffee service was arranged, wore a deep rose flat crepe afternoon gown.

Serving of the various dainties was accomplished by a trio of prettily gowned girls, the Misses Berta Ann Munson, Ruth Switzer and Margaret Thomas, members of a high school service club of which Mrs. Smith is adviser. Guests repaired with their plates and cups to the garden terrace where the remainder of the afternoon was pleasantly spent. For those who lingered longest, there was an impromptu bit of charm when Miss Switzer sang "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life" with Miss Parker at the piano.

Present were Mr. and Mrs. S. K. Hershey, Mr. and Mrs. John Ortiz, Miss Nellie Hershey, John Manning and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Hershey.

The year's program so pleasantly introduced by Stanford Women's club will continue next month with a dinner meeting to be held with Mrs. N. E. West in Laguna Beach on Monday evening, October 5.

Club Members Present

Gifts to Celebrants

Pretty tea towels were the gifts of X. N. O. club members to Mrs. M. O. Johnson and Mrs. E. Perry, birthday celebrants who were honored at the latest club party in the home of Mrs. W. L. Harbert, 2050 South Broadway.

Asters and golden glow served as decorations for the affair, which reached a happy conclusion with the serving of dessert, at a large table spread with a hand-made lace cloth crocheted by the hostess.

Present were Mesdames A. R. Bennett, E. E. Edwards, W. R. Edwards, M. O. Johnson, E. E. Lentz, R. A. McPhee, E. E. Perry, H. R. Trott, B. A. Hershey and the hostess.

SOCIETY

Tri-Y Girl Reserves
To Meet Tonight

Sophomore and other new students at Polytechnic High school will be welcomed as guests tonight at Tri-Y Girl Reserves' first meeting of the year, scheduled for 7 o'clock in the Y. W. C. A. rooms.

In charge of arrangements for the event are Mackie Knight, membership chairman; Barbara Rowell, sub chairman, invitations; Norma Area and Helen Crother, social chairman, decorations; Helen Hicks and Thelma Lambert, service chairmen, refreshments; Betty Frye, Gerry Peck, Helen Rowell, Muriel Engelke and Jackie Morrison, skit; Marjorie Vollmer, Jessie Wilsey, Phyllis Krook and Audrey Barnes, devotional.

Miss Betty Neff will preside over the meeting, which will close with the dancing and the serving of refreshments.

Junior High

Girl Reserve activities for junior high girls will begin this week also, according to announcements made recently at special assemblies held in Willard and Lathrop junior high schools. Miss Mary Porter, Girl Reserve secretary, made announcements at both assemblies.

It was pointed out that the general Girl Reserve program includes healthful outdoor activities such as hiking, picnicking and camping, and participation in the study of such subjects as handcraft, dramatics and music.

BON VOYAGE SUPPER

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Hyde Jr., 201 West Twentieth street, were among the half hundred or more guests entertained last night at buffet supper by Mrs. Chester Brown and her daughters, the Misses Freda and Ruth Brown, on their peninsula home at Balboa.

The affair served a three-fold purpose, for it celebrated the tenth wedding anniversary of Mrs. Brown's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Locke; it was also an anniversary of Mrs. Brown's departure a few years ago for a Pacific cruise, and was bon voyage compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Brown as well. They are sailing September 30 on the S. S. Santa Anna for an extended cruise.

Guests represented various Southern cities, and included Mr. Locke's mother of Los Angeles together with Mrs. Harry Carr and Miss Margaret Carr of that city, wife and sister of the late well known author and columnist on the L. A. Times.

INTERESTING VISITOR

Dr. Claude Hayward, who is employed in the laboratories of the General Electric company at Schenectady, N. Y., and Philadelphia, Pa., has returned to Santa Ana for a visit after a seven year's absence from his home city, where he is a guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Hayward, 804 Cypress avenue.

Dr. Hayward was graduated from Polytechnic High school with the class of 1922. After a year of study at junior college, he enrolled at California Institute of Technology in Pasadena, leaving there with the degree of doctor of philosophy in electrical engineering

Annual Convention Of W.C.T.U. To Open Tuesday

STATE LEADER TO GIVE TALK ON WEDNESDAY

LA HABRA, Sept. 21.—Plans are being made by the W. R. C. for their annual inspection night, which has been announced for October 16. At the meeting of the group Friday evening a potluck supper was planned for 5:30 o'clock of that evening, to be held in the Masonic temple.

Other business included the election of Mrs. Ben S. Roberts as senior vice president of the corps.

The next meeting of Federation No. 1 was announced for September 28 at Westminster.

A special guest was Mrs. Edna Empson, of Brea, junior vice president of the California-Nevada department.

Mrs. Minnie Williams, a member who has recently moved to Los Angeles, was also present.

The special illness of Mrs. Bertha Drum, a member, now residing in San Bernardino, was reported.

Following the meeting refreshments were served in the dining room by Mrs. D. C. Munford and Mrs. A. C. Schroeder.

EBELL CLUB IN FIRST MEETING

LA HABRA, Sept. 21.—Leslie Brigham, baritone, of Los Angeles, provided the entertainment by singing operatic, Negro and modern songs at the first meeting of the new year of the Fullerton Ebell club at their clubhouse Friday afternoon.

Mrs. A. H. T. Osborne, serving as president for the beginning of her second term, greeted the members and announced the theme of the new year as "Building," and Mrs. Albert Launer, program chairman, presented new year books bound in green with gold lettering, and with pastel shaded pages.

Following a short business session, the hostesses who had received at the door served refreshments. They were Mrs. J. J. Alexander, Mrs. A. Gold, Mrs. Lew Ames, Mrs. Y. W. Ramsey, Mrs. H. J. Kelley, Mrs. A. C. Rhodes, Mrs. Anna Lemke and Mrs. Everett C. Cravett.

The annual civic luncheon date was announced for January 15, when Madrona Hunter, reader, will present the afternoon program.

Life members will be honored at the October 2 meeting, with Mrs. Franklin P. Wray bringing the afternoon address. She is state chairman of legislation. It will be a covered dish luncheon.

ANALYST, Sept. 21.—Frank Wykoff, who holds the world record for the 100-yard dash, which he made in nine and two-fifths seconds, and who was a contestant in three Olympic games, was the speaker at the Lions club Friday.

Mr. Wykoff, who received his training at the University of Southern California, is now physical instructor of the schools of Carpenteria. He was introduced by Ray Buckler and was obtained as speaker through the efforts of Percy Houts.

Tracing the history of the Olympic Games, which started about 776 B. C., it is believed, Mr. Wykoff told of his trip to Berlin for the recent games. He said the ships were outfitted with all needed types of training equipment for the athletes. He spoke particularly of the welcome given the American athletes upon their arrival in Germany.

Housed 29 to a house, in 150 buildings which comprised Olympic Village, 20 miles from Berlin, each nation's athletes were given their native food. There were nine days of games with the 120,000-capacity stadium filled every day.

Mr. Wykoff says Hitler is the most beloved man in Germany. He is well-prepared for but opposed to war, the speaker claimed. He spoke in particular of the success of the youth movement.

Other speakers that addressed the group were Horace C. Head, manager of the Roosevelt-Garner campaign for Orange county, Harry Westover and James Heiner. R. Peterson acted as master of ceremonies.

Other speakers that addressed the group were Horace C. Head, manager of the Roosevelt-Garner campaign for Orange county, Harry ANAHEIM, Sept. 21.—Frank Wykoff, who holds the world record for the 100-yard dash, which he made in nine and two-fifths seconds, and who was a contestant in three Olympic games, was the speaker at the Lions club Friday.

Mr. Wykoff, who received his training at the University of Southern California, is now physical instructor of the schools of Carpenteria. He was introduced by Ray Buckler and was obtained as speaker through the efforts of Percy Houts.

Tracing the history of the Olympic Games, which started about 776 B. C., it is believed, Mr. Wykoff told of his trip to Berlin for the recent games. He said the ships were outfitted with all needed types of training equipment for the athletes. He spoke particularly of the welcome given the American athletes upon their arrival in Germany.

Housed 29 to a house, in 150 buildings which comprised Olympic Village, 20 miles from Berlin, each nation's athletes were given their native food. There were nine days of games with the 120,000-capacity stadium filled every day.

Mr. Wykoff says Hitler is the most beloved man in Germany. He is well-prepared for but opposed to war, the speaker claimed. He spoke in particular of the success of the youth movement.

old Cub days. He developed the cast-off, "Bump" Hadley, into a winner. He handles each player differently. Two notable cases of players he couldn't control are Ben Chapman and Johnny Allen, so he got rid of them.

McCarthy's hobbies are vaudeville and magic. He's a walking "who's who of vaudeville." He knows all the old vaudeville actors, their songs, patter and routine. He has seen all of the great magicians of the past 25 years, studied them, and mastered many of their tricks. His favorites were Houdini and Thurston.

His biggest baseball thrill was when the Yankees won four straight from the Cubs in the 1932 series. The triumph was the sweetest because the Cubs fired him in 1930 after he had managed that club for five years. Before that he managed the Louisville (American association) team from mid-season of 1919 until he went to the Cubs. In all his years as a manager, he had only one club finish in second division—Louisville in 1922. As a player, McCarthy was an infielder.

Chicago Board of Trade

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—(UPI)—Forecasts of an increase in European imports during the coming season induced active buying of wheat futures by the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday. Prices advanced to 30 cents a cent of a cent a bushel before selling pressure increased noticeably.

At the close wheat was up 1/2 to 3 cents. 110,000 bushels were down to 1/4 cent, Sept. 25 cents; rye was unchanged to up 1/2 cent. Sept. 25 cents.

The main factor behind the day's strength was the continued rise in his estimate on world import requirements. He advanced his figure to 536,000,000 bushels, 24,000,000 more than his previous estimate.

Prices on the Chicago market were up 1/2 cent, 110,000 bushels, 24,000,000 more than his previous estimate.

M. W. D. WATER

The announcement of the estimated rate of $15 per acre foot for M. W. D. water is of interest to Orange county. The amount of water that can be used in this territory, to a certain extent, depends upon the price. We had hoped the cost would be less than this. The information, however, will at least give Orange county citizens an estimate of what they can count on.

When the M. W. D. contends that they will not sell to those who are not in the district, we do not understand their philosophy. If they do not use the water and the rights are established by others, and the capacity of the canal would never be used, it would certainly seem that they would be obliged to temporarily dispose of whatever surplus they may have until such time as those in the district have grown large enough to consume it, provided they can secure enough for the surplus water to pay the cost of lifting it.

Orange county should take a long time view of the problem and neither try to take advantage of the situation nor agree to pay more than they can pay.

WHAT IS MODERN MONEY?

In the September issue of the magazine, "The People's Money"—Frederick Soddy of the University of Oxford, England, Nobel Prize winner in the Laureate of Chemistry in 1921, explains very vividly what modern money is.

Dr. Soddy, being a scientist and having a very analytical mind, vividly illustrates that in physics nothing can be had for nothing. He goes on to explain how the banks pyramid credit and make pretended "loans"; that is, they loan other people's wealth and get the interest for it. He says, "The issuer of money, who first puts it into circulation, cannot help getting something for nothing, namely the exchange value of the money." What he really gets, of course, is the interest for nothing, as the banker is eventually obliged to cancel the bookkeeping entry on his books when the borrower brings in another piece of paper cancelling the debt. He explains that only a very small fraction of what we use as money is actually money—the rest is bank credit.

He says, (referring to England) "from the invention of the cheque system to 1914, money was expanded by these means (referring to credit) to the total sum of 1,000,000,000 pounds of which at least one thousand million pounds was of private creation. During and after the war it was relatively suddenly multiplied to more than double and, in 1920, was £2,700,000,000. The value of the £ in goods fell almost in proportion, and became worth only about 8-20ths of the pre-war value".

The author says it is quite impossible to issue money on such principles without causing alternate rise of prices and consequent deflation and industrial depression. The history of the system has been one of boom following slump with the periodic regularity that has earned the special title of the "Trade Cycle."

"It must not for a moment be supposed that by this system the money of the country and its standard of prosperity was increased as rapidly as it would have been under a scientific monetary system," he says. "The truth is that here as in many other directions the prodigality of science is such that progress was made in spite of antiquated laws, anti-social practices, and the amputation of the financial from the political government, which would have ruined any poorer age".

The author also agrees with Groselose, author of "Money, the Human Conflict," and one of the keenest students of money we have every read, when he says, "if the people could be relied upon to consent to the extent of paying honestly for the additional expenditure incurred, there is no reason why even wars should not be waged without debasing the unit of monetary value".

We believe these men are scientific students of money and we think Ogden Mills and Herbert Hoover, when they still contend that the depression, inflation and deflation were due to the war, do not understand what modern money is. Although Ogden Mills, in his very sound, constructive book, "Liberalism Fights On" points out that we must not stop our search for a sound banking system—something we have never had in the United States.

Dr. Soddy says that years ago, monarchs used to debase their money with cheap alloys. Later the banks were permitted to print paper money and from it bank notes. Now the banking laws give the banks the privilege of pyramiding their loans by issuing check-book credits, and by this subtle method make it much easier and more profitable to inflate because the owners of credits do not so easily detect that their assets are being taken from them.

The Doctor remarks: "A counterfeiter issuing money is punished if convicted for treason rather than for theft. But the banks by the check system, have invented a means of issuing money without coining it or even issuing a bank note, and this form of money in quantity makes the whole of the rest insignificant." But the banks attempt to camouflage the operation by calling it a "loan".

Understand, The Register in no way is criticizing the bank officials. They are simply victims of our banking laws and are obliged to be legal counterfeitors of money for self-preservation.

How foolish the people are, however, to give the bankers this privilege, which rapidly increases and decreases what we use as "modern money," instead of paying the bankers direct for the services they render.

It is often contended that inflation, or counterfeiting money, or debasing it, or diluting it, has caused more misery than wars. It might be true. It is a very interesting question.

HARD ON DOERS

Lecky, in his great history of European morals, gave Christianity credit for developing human nature and character so that they did not enjoy seeing the suffering of human beings, or even of animals. Prior to Christianity, one of the principal sports was throwing human beings into pits and seeing them torn to pieces by wild animals. The teaching of Christianity finally developed such character that this sport gradually died out.

Now, with waste, extravagance, want and suffering going on before us that could so easily be greatly reduced, if we understood and obeyed the laws of biology, it will probably be necessary for those who are in the habit of doing things to steel themselves to the habit of seeing unnecessary suffering without it giving them much concern or uneasiness. It is easy for those who have not been in the habit of trying to do things but only in the habit of consuming and letting things go to pieces, not to be worried when things are going the wrong way. When the people violate biological laws, nature steps in, in order to correct these violations, and this correction is cruel and, undoubtedly, much more severe than it would be if we followed the natural, biological laws. If we insist on perpetuating the least fit, contrary to all animal and vegetable kingdoms, nature eventually takes control and prevents us. The sensitive person will have to get accustomed to this operation, as it looks as if we are in one of those long periods where this purging process is taking place.

GOVERNMENT OF MEN

The one thing to remember, when we are thinking about The Constitution or A Constitution, is that if we have a government of men, our future and right of initiative depend upon the men. If we have the right kind of a constitution, which the framers of our Constitution intended it to be and which it was until we changed it by the Sixteenth amendment, it would be as Senator Borah well said: "The crowning virtue of our Constitution is the restraint and control it imposes upon the agents and representatives of, and the liberty it allows to the people" and as Woodrow Wilson said, "the history of liberty is a history of limitation of governmental powers, not the increase of it".

REGISTER CLEARING HOUSE

(The articles under the Clearing House are published for the purpose of an exchange of ideas and are not necessarily the opinion of this newspaper. Contributors are urged to confine their articles to 300 words.)

Editor:
I was interested in a letter in the Clearing House of Wednesday the 16th by one E. J. Kelly of Costa Mesa. Being interested, I was intrigued to contact Mr. Kelly. As I don't know the gentleman, nor where to find him, may I ask for a few lines in your Clearing House?

I feel a deep sympathy and fellow-feeling for Mr. Kelly, and for others who, like him and myself, feel a dissatisfaction with things as they are, feel that something is wrong in our social system. Because that feeling of dissatisfaction is an indication of progress. It's the dissatisfied, and those who have a vision, that are responsible for the larger part of human progress.

Someone has said that, if your mental compass is not set right, you'll never arrive. That means not alone that you must pick your facts and reason correctly, but you must have some kind of a sense of the proper direction your reasoning should take.

I wonder if Mr. Kelly is right in his assertion that the state is bankrupt. Something is bankrupt, but is it the state? Can Mr. Kelly or anyone else demonstrate to us that we have so exhausted our natural resources that as a people, we are bankrupt? In the state, the nation, and in our own county, we have a most wonderful array of natural resources that we have not yet wasted. We have the machinery, the technical knowledge, and the physical labor necessary to conserve and develop these resources to an extent that would stagger the imagination. There is a wasteful, a terrible waste, an unreasonable waste, but we can honestly and truthfully say that lines in the municipal (?) salaries we pay our teachers?

The writer, 40 years ago, was a teacher. To compare salaries, there are more competent teachers in Orange county today who are getting fewer dollars, each of which buys less, than the writer was receiving at that time. No one knows, Mr. Kelly, better than I do the failure of the schools to achieve desired results. But you are sure that they are hampered by over-pay and too few pupils?

Have you looked into the question from the standpoint of the teacher? If you were to do so, I believe you would find that no one in the community is more keenly aware of their inability to achieve satisfactory results than are these same teachers. My advice would be, "if you find a teacher or a school official who is satisfied with the results they are obtaining, get up a petition and get a lot of people to sign it that the said teacher or official resign his post. Sincerely,

C. H. STEARNS.

Thoughts On Modern Life

THE UNDECIDED VOTER

The science of sampling public opinion has made great strides in recent years.

The Literary Digest and American Institute polls have rendered a genuine public service.

Their technique are among the new tools that social leadership will use increasingly in the future.

The likelihood is, however, that their advance glimpse will be less accurate as to final results in the 1936 presidential campaign than in any earlier year.

The reason is this—an unprecedentedly large number of Americans are still undecided about their vote for president.

The deciding factor in the forthcoming election will be the undecided voter.

An unheralded and unpublished poll was taken recently in various parts of the United States.

One county in Indiana gives a good sample of what these polls showed.

8000 voted for Landon.

7000 voted for Roosevelt.

6000 stated they had not yet decided for whom they would vote.

This was in a county that has been normally Republican by a wide margin of votes.

It would be helpful if all the public polls gave greater attention to this undecided vote, for where nearly one-third of a voting group is undecided, the Landon-Roosevelt tabulation of the other two-thirds may mean little.

It is gratifying, I think, that so large a show of emancipation from party labels is evident.

Free voters are the best guarantee of a free America.

OUR CHILDREN

BY ANGELO PATRI

CULTIVATE RARITY

"Doug is going away to college | broken snow, the shy, Puritan flower lies waiting. To discover it is a triumph."

Something of this rarity becomes a girl who wants to be a successful and winning sweetheart. There is a time when a college boy is entitled to a girl's picture, and nobody need supply a map of that time. The boy and the girl know every inch of the road, for they have traveled it together in affectionate understanding and trust. Until that time comes, save your picture. Make yourself rare and you will be sought after by the rare ones who appreciate beauty and worth.

Girls of today scarcely know whether to step forward or go back. As I see it, it is better to go forward with eyes wide open, stepping carefully, and cultivate rarity in all your ways.

Mr. Patri has prepared a leaflet entitled, "Poor Readers," in which he gives parents many suggestions on how to help children to improve their reading. Send for it, address your request to Mr. Angelo Patri, Child Psychology Department of The Register. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope.

In the Long Ago

From The Register Files

25 Years Ago Today

SEPTEMBER 21, 1911

Three shots in quick succession, a woman's scream and another shot were heard last night nearly midnight on a road east of Talbert and this morning the dead body of Marcos Guerrero was found in the middle of the road. Officers have no information as to who killed the man nor what woman screamed.

Contracts, plans and specifications were filed today at the courthouse for the erection of Orange county's fifth big sugar plant, which will be built on Southern Pacific railroad three miles south of Santa Ana for the Santa Ana Co-operative Sugar company. The Dyer company of Cleveland has the contract for the plant at a price of $512,000.

John Reigle, civil and electrical engineer who is superintending the construction of the new sugar plant near the Irvine ranch, is the guest of his old friends of former Ohio days, Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Shafer.

Just As We Were Beginning To Get Acquainted

Day By Day In Washington

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright, 1936)

Note: This is the first of two dispatches summarizing the impressions of New England's political situation which David Lawrence derived from a visit to the six states in the northeast corner of the electoral map.

CONCORD, N. H., Sept. 21.—Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont bear a certain resemblance to each other because they have a large rural population which still regards the Calvin Coolidge type of president as an example of true American thrift and stability.

It is natural, therefore, to find Governor Landon growing stronger in this section as a result of the revelations of his personality to New England folks. His back platform appearances and personal conferences have made an impression far better than his radio talks.

Across the top of New England, there's a definitely Republican trend. New Hampshire is going to increase its Republican vote materially. The primary vote showed signs of activity quite unusual for so early a period. And the primary did not result in any dissension that might mean trouble for Landon. The defeat of Senator Moses was a great disappointment to his ardent followers, but his strength was among the conservatives who are going to vote for Landon anyhow, whereas Governor Bridges, who won the senatorial nomination, is more popular among the liberal or so-called progressive elements in the party, who might be classed as independent voters. From this group, the Landon ticket may possibly gain votes that would otherwise have gone with the Roosevelt administration.

Connecticut has hardly got going. Either of all the New England states, I should say that Connecticut is the most doubtful. The Republicans have not been too sure of carrying it with a figure beyond 20,000, and that's not a big majority for Connecticut, though four years ago Mr. Hoover pulled through by less than 10,000.

Governor Landon is conceded much stronger in Connecticut than Mr. Hoover was in 1932. There are signs of a Republican come-back in various cities and towns that have gone Republican since 1932. But it must be borne in mind that Connecticut has a big industrial population, in which, following trends in other parts of the country, the New Deal would naturally poll a bigger vote than usual.

Much depends on whether the Lemke-Coughlin managers succeed in getting their candidates on the ballot. Inroads in the industrial vote would be made by the Coughlin speeches.

It is not
